How is it happening
that time moves
so swift and imperceptible

a journey that is never done?

Even these words freeze
on their pages
And pictures
(once a decisive
flash)
endure far longer than we shall know

A book stops the action
to record
a brief moment
in the middle of time.

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times . . ."

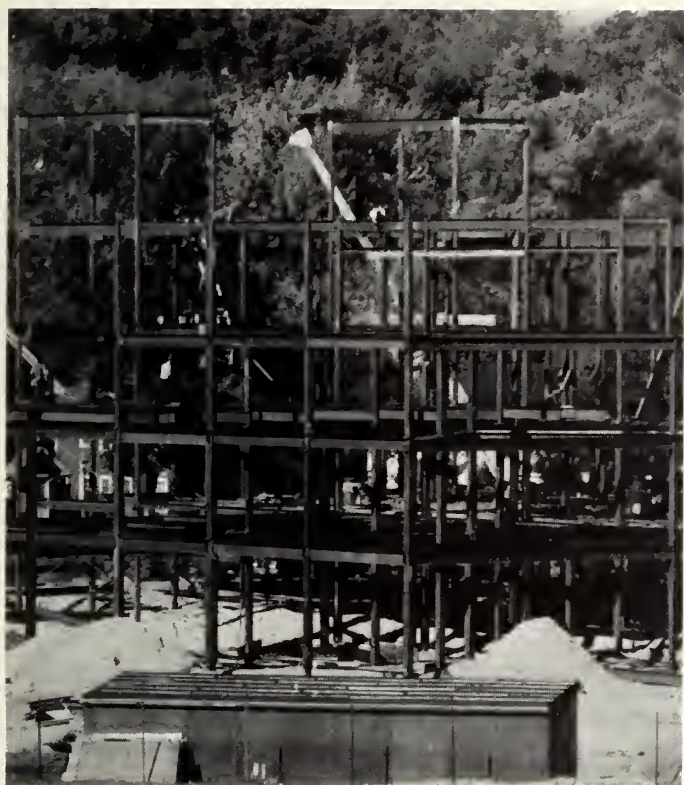

"Here we are caught between classic brick and ivy"

and PROGRESS.

Is there joy to be found here? Can I pour out my waiting secrets to strangers in the corridors?

*I will discover solace
Not in paper but in people;
I cannot find refuge in books
For I must learn from the living.*

Is it literally true that the world IS everything to us, if we choose to make it so, if only we "live in the present" because it IS eternity.

Life can only be understood backwards, but it can only be lived forwards.

*We discover that we do not know our role;
we look for a mirror;
we want to remove our makeup
and take off what is false
and become real.*

*For we are alive,
and growing,
and becoming:*

*and to become a person
a school
a community
is an art.*

*I create myself endlessly, shaping part of me into the work of my artists fingers,
a work that remains*

even after I leave it, moving instead with the swift current of being alive.

*"We mold the world
as the artist shapes clay —
we have the power to create beauty around us."*

*The work of hands sometimes is not enough
and so we build our tools, extend our hands
to give us greater mastery,*

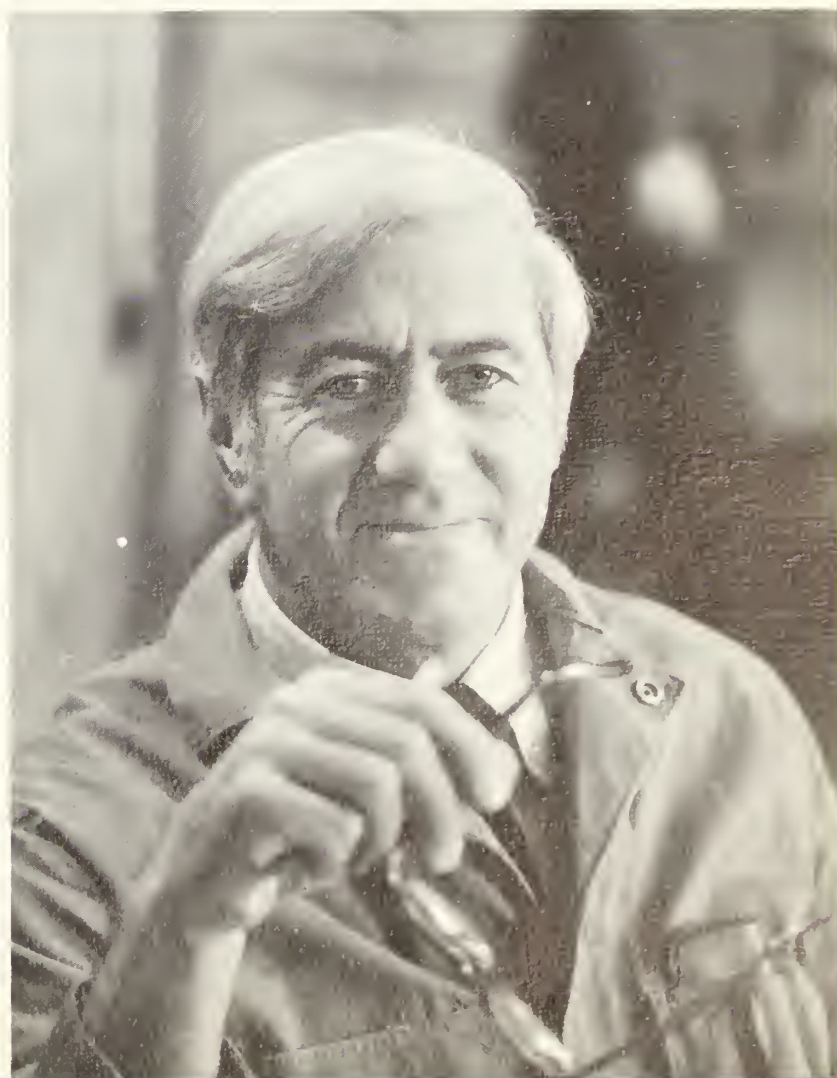

*bending the iron world
to satisfy our living will, for*

only an electric — human spark makes machines work.

*We are powerful and proud of it.
Who says we can't change the world? We have!*

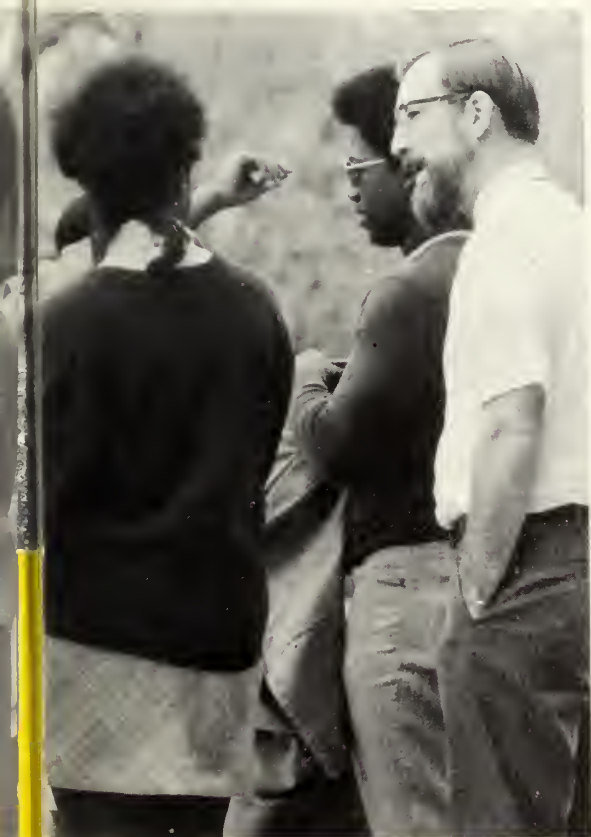

*And we, the eternal raw triumphant young,
can add our own joyous shouts to the noisy world.
... we seize the day!*

*Cheer on the human super-runner,
he can't wait to get there before he knows where it is.*

CHANGE

Change has been "the order of the day" around Newton High School for some time, and this year is no exception. The most dramatic changes always take place in the attitudes, ambitions, activities, and interests of the students. These will be reflected throughout the rest of this book.

Administrative changes have paralleled the personal ones, sometimes following and sometimes anticipating. By far the most significant change this year has been the move to an open campus. This has been discussed for many years by all members of the community, but the last two years have provided additional impetus. As with all administrative change, it remains to be seen whether this will seriously affect the tone and productivity of the school. The objective is more human and humane treatment of and by all members of the community. Only time will tell whether this objective has been reached.

Other major changes are under way which will affect the program from this time forward. These revolve around the institution of a large number of elective courses within our regular program and a complementing array of mini-courses. The traditional three year English requirement has been abandoned, with students able to substitute three semesters of electives for the last three semesters of their regular work. This is only typical of comparable changes in most of the other departments.

And always there is the new building going up alongside of us! This will dramatically affect our lives, enabling us to develop the totally comprehensive high school that we have had in mind for many years.

Richard W. Mechem
Principal

February 9, 1971

The Student Senate was faced with a paradoxical situation this year. We could not honestly expect a broad base of student support unless we proved we could make important changes in the school, yet it seemed as though we could not effectively produce school-wide change without a broad, vocal, base of student support.

To solve this problem, we felt a change in the structure of the Senate was necessary. Large-group meetings had usually accomplished nothing, where smaller groups could often work effectively. The Senate was therefore broken down into study groups, each committee with a specific topic in mind. Topics ranged from discipline, grading, and open campus student evaluations of courses and teachers and an SFA. We hoped this would give more students a chance to be involved in the Senate, and would accomplish change in specific areas independent of a large, cumbersome organization.

Our plans were only partially successful. Our greatest fear, that students would not get involved proved justified. But the year was not without certain successes. Open campus finally became legal for juniors and seniors—sophomores will still have to break the rules to leave the campus. Student evaluations of courses and teachers were introduced and made possible. Primarily due to student proposals, the English curriculum has undergone basic and beneficial changes.

Other proposals have not had immediate results. As students are in high school for three years, it is hard to have a perspective of events in the school. It is hard to understand changes, unhappily, take time to push through. Just three years ago open campus was merely a student's whim, and a walk on the grass meant suspension, while five years ago abolishing the dress code was considered impossible.

Ideas being seriously considered for the first time this year, such as voluntary classroom, a court of appeals with fundamental laws to refer to, or a student option in electing pass-fail or letter grades, have not gone into effect. Whether or not these proposals and the many others being introduced are implemented within the next few years is the final test of how successful this Senate has been, and how effective future Senates will be.

Harry Housemaster says:

"A house is a community of people striving to develop their individuality in a climate of understanding and responsibility."

"We are trying to create a chance for students to be people, to contribute unselfishly and to be concerned about someone other than themselves."

"We have been open to change, increasing our flexibility, for we want the house system to help students as fully as possible."

"We have instituted an SFA board and house discussion groups, and we have sponsored dances and coffee hours, rock groups and hayrides, getting people together for good times; all in an effort to increase and improve communication. We want everyone to talk and listen and share ideas."

"We have even created a new 'house': the Barry House Project, with its individuality, not in bagels or doughnuts, but in its program of a 'school within a house.' In this way students may get as much individual attention possible."

"We have seen great changes at NHS during the year. But some things never change: the need to be stable and expand new ideas. In realizing the need of stability and self-awareness, Harry Housemaster says, 'student' a little easier."

Joe Student says:

a house is

where those sweet concerned secretaries never fail to inquire about your health if you're home in bed . . .

(or even if you're not)

where a coke, and an armchair in the commons room are an untold luxury . . .
where you learn math by totaling up credits-to-graduate with your computer-happy counselor,
where doughnuts and coffee get spilled every Thursday morning . . .
where you might escape for lunch
when the cafeteria blows your mind.

(as you wade through candy wrappers to find the jukebox)

where once in a while you meet someone who cares
amid the many who couldn't care less:
and you might get a sudden urge to speed down the hall on roller skates (but don't)

a house is three years of listening to the same girls gossiping in homeroom
every morning . . .

(it's more interesting than the Daily bulletin)

. . . or maybe it's three years of coming up with the 500 most original excuses for coming late and leaving early . . .

a house is where everybody looks for answers to the superstructure and the chaos of the whole where unity through division is the theme;
where a lot of crazy idealistic people
discover its variations.

When a dancer stretches
her slender body backwards
to the fullest
and gently lets her fingers
down
The sea stretches to me
slides until it touches
my startled waiting feet

When she lets herself
go calmly, to stand free
at ease.
The sea slides back
seeping sand
Through feeling flesh.

The grayness of the hour envelopes
 in bleakness
 The sixth day of gray

 The crowds gaze at the heavy

 about the rottenness of it all

TORY HICKEY

Through deadman pores
the cursed stems emerged
a plague of light green pointed spots
thrust up crazed
as army of sword bayonets
oh of what dement's genius to rise from frozen rancid flesh
each living tendril
out from knee and chest and empty eye
the humans unspeakable decaying depths and spidery leaves bloomed on fattening stems cast their shadows on icy skin till overlapping they spread across a green veil like lace
and the deadman darkened
in sudden shadow
lying under within his living field
and did not stir in his grassy bed
when brazen scarlet petals emerged like snakes maidens
from green cocoons

NIGHTMARE

Demons in the night comprise
A turning mind, the piercing eyes
That midst the peaceful darkness shed
A twisted light on thoughts once dead.

The muffled scream, distorted face
Fights back, the slipping steps retrace,
The sober mind, rational scheme
Annul the power of a dream.

Phantoms of the night compose
A sickened line, the terror grows
As dusty page on ancient shelf
Reveals the horror of yourself

You really are going to die. Slow

If there is audible outside noise
The shades go down.

Before, an introductory stage of think, must,
a coordinated will.

Joining the instruments, soaking reeds,
And other preliminary arrangements
Require no special effort, I admit.

Only afterward, enumerating in my nervous mind:
test the reed, back straight,
fingers curved, cushioning lips perfect the attack and don't strangle the instrument.

It becomes quite a responsibility.
I begin by plodding through an exercise Including sharps and unheard of Leaps from low to high notes,
Holding real music ahead of me
A reward for doing a good job.

But (having arrived) stopping—repeating improving—stopping?

I see music on paper and hear it on records.

Sometimes I am satisfied.
I hear my own
enviable tone, technique
Mellifluous, full and sing
Attack—and taper off quietly.
With images of perfect landscapes and sunsets
I want to play, to prolong

SPORTS

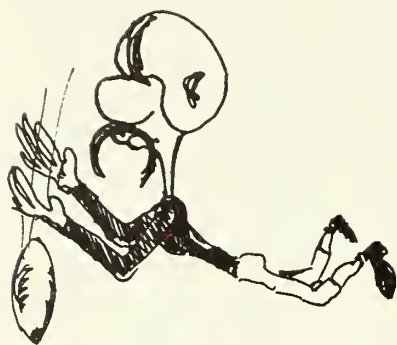

August 31st to November 26th is a long, long time to play football. The hours are long and the physical beating enormous. The Tigers played to a 6-2-1 record this year; for the past three years 22-4-1. Fantastic. But the true measure of success is not in the record books, but in the young men who choose to sacrifice their time, energy and soul, to play football.

Improvement, great attitude, spirit, and most of all, toughness, are all words that describe this year's players. The seniors have experienced the most successful three years of any class at NHS in recent times, and they're proud. Pride; now there's a word. Pride instilled by the fine coaching of Jim Ronanyne and his assistants, Norm Walker, Paul Guzzi, Peter Copodilupo and Dave Bliss.

Perhaps the most satisfying victory of all was at Waltham. Newton toughness prevailed and defeated the Hawks 21-0, the last of 6 shut-outs for Norm Walker's defensive squad. Perhaps of all the records, this, six shutouts in nine games, tells the story of this year's seniors.

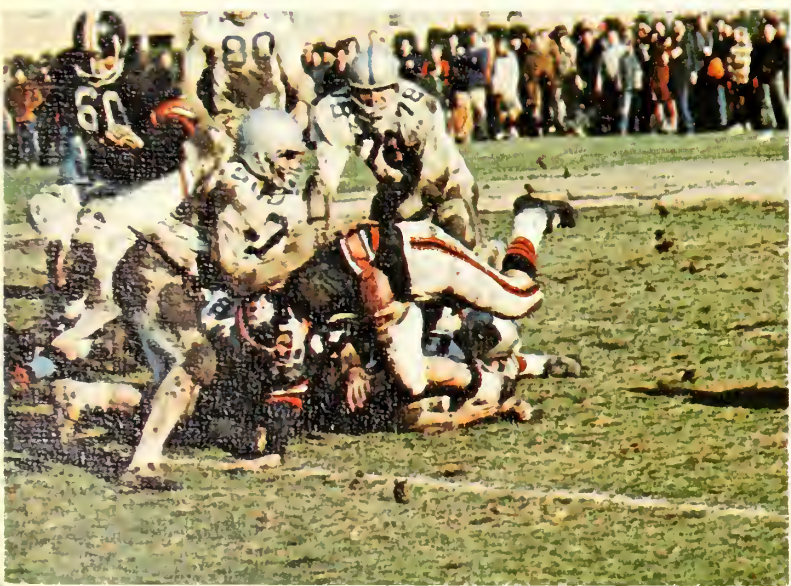

The T-Day classic against Brookline was a disappointment. The Newton offense sputtered on a slick, frozen field and the Tigers fell behind 12-0. Newton was unable to score until the last period when junior QB Paul Grillo drove the team 62 yards for a score. That made it 12-7 and it stayed that way as Newton had the ball two more times but could not score. For the first time in three years Newton failed to beat Brookline, and it was not a happy ending for the 22 seniors who played their last game in a black and orange jersey that day.

As all the coaches and players know: a loss is not a pleasant thing, but it is not the thing that our players will remember. They will remember practicing in the dark that last November week, sweating in the late August heat, and most of all the great feeling it was to be part of this team, totally committed in a time when being committed to anything is far from the norm. It is an overwhelmingly good feeling to be part of a good team, and it was certainly the case in 1970.

EASTERN MASSACHUSETTS SOCCER SEMI-FINALISTS

The 1970 N.H. soccer team surprised everyone. Winless in pre-season play the club put together 10 straight victories capturing the Suburban League crown. It marked the first undefeated soccer season in Newton High's history. Aggressive, spirited, the team was finally subdued by a tough Braintree team in the semi-finals of the Eastern Massachusetts tournament. 3,000 fans braved the cold to witness one of the best school-boy soccer games ever played. Newton fought through five overtimes before losing 2-1.

Mike Buzzi and Bernie "Butch" Flanagan did a great job in their first year as varsity coaches.

CROSS COUNTRY

Running is an extremely personal thing. The individual is pitted against himself. The sacrifices he makes and the pain he is willing to endure determines greatly the runner's success in competition.

The members of the 1970 cross-country team had this strange combination of courage, stamina, and dedication that enabled them to continue on and outlast other runners despite the almost agonizing pain.

Led by senior Jay Sidman, the harriers amassed a 5-2 slate. Co-captain Sidman fractured three course records and failed to win only one dual meet. Behind Sidman the main stalwarts were Dan Gorfinkle, Peter Wrenn, Bob Carleo, Steve Caggiano, Ed Coan, Marc Rosenbaum and Jim Boates.

The J.V. team, Dave Fray, Paul Souiatis, Jeff Garden, Frank Carey, Steve Van Trees, Paul DeMao, Joel Reisman, and Pete Granoff, also had a fairly successful season losing only to Brockton and Arlington.

GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY

FUN FAST FANTASTIC FIELD HOCKEY

There were some girls who said they'd like to play
 A sport where eleven all chase a ball
 With sticks. So they practiced two hours a day;
 Then ran. Some slid and even I would fall.

Coach Davidson now had to try to make These girls work as a team. At first it seemed To be quite a task. But those who could take
 The ball down field all won the first, Judith beamed.

And on they went, or so the legend's told.
 They played twelve games some won, some lost, one tied.
 And yet what these girls had cannot be bought or sold.
 At times it worked as a team, each knows inside.

Next year I hope to return and find the same Spirit and joy that these girls had for this game.

Chop chop, to the pitch!

HOCKEY

Hopes for Newton High's hockey team to make the coveted Eastern Mass. Tourney for the first time in six years fell short this year. The Tigers ended the season tied for fourth place with a record of ten wins and eight losses. They finished behind Arlington, Brookline, and Hingham, the teams qualifying for the Tourney.

The team ran off six straight victories at the beginning of the year however they then headed into a tailspin hampering them for the rest of the season. Walter Cox was leading, scoring 19 points and as the leading goal scorer with 14 points. He centered the first line with co-captain Joe Arnold and Jimmy Fay. Arnold finished second, scoring 5 goals with 13 assists. Finishing third was Ed Carey with 14 points. Carey was on the second line with Gerry Quaranto, Warren Peppiceli and Mark Howley.

Heading the defensive crew were seniors, Andy Dealy, Greg Blue and juniors Teddy Tocci and Steve Chapman.

Besides the tremendous team effort and spirit, a bright spot of the year was the stellar goal tending of co-captain Jim Chase. Jim always came up with a big save. He was rewarded by being named first team goalie in the Suburban League. Many people, including rival coaches, consider him as one of the best players in the state.

INDOOR TRACK

People find comfort in knowing that they possess a valuable item that will soon become unattainable. They develop such pride in that item they grow miserly and refuse to share it with anyone else.

A case in point is the Newton High indoor track team. They out-ran and out-jumped every team in their league. Their unblemished record boosted them to the top of the Met League Division I above once-beaten Brockton.

And they need not worry about anyone, usurping their crown next year. The Met League is to be disbanded. That's right no more Met League. This is due to the lack of a permanent facility to hold the meets and the procrastination of local politicians to build one.

But don't fret about the Tigers from Newton High School. They'll have a team next year if they have to run in the Fargo Building. In fact Coach Lamoine Boyle is conjuring up a way for Newton to run a wildcat schedule which would include dual meets in the drill shed. Whenever Boyle mentions this he smiles and says, "No one can beat us on those curves."

This year's captains Alan Boyer and Stan Birdwell will quickly attest to that. They led the team in their daily practices in the shed all year. Boyle feels that these two boys were responsible for the excellent spirit on the squad which had to be a factor in the team's success.

Besides their leadership Boyer, Birdwell and next year's captain, Dave Douglas, established Newton in the big meets. Boyer was the state champ in the 300 and Douglas was second only to New Bedford's Steve Caton in the 1000.

Although it was a small squad there was a lot of talent. Contributing to the 7-0 season with their consistent scoring in the high jump were Franny Murphy and Dick O'Brien. Dan Borden was outstanding putting the shot. He took a third in the states.

Coach Boyle has some real potential to cultivate in dashmen Gordon Manter, Jim Shaw and Bob Hoover. If they develop along with hurdlers John Alphin, Peter Fair and Bob Womboldt Newton will be untouchable in these events.

Besides Douglas Newton had Steve Caggiano, Steve Haley and Frank Cary in the middle distances.

From the long distancemen the Tigers had steady performances from Jay Sidman, Jim Boates, Ken Gorfinkle and Peter Wrenn.

Although the future of indoor track at NHS is a bit cloudy, in two years the new school will be completed along with a n excellent indoor track facility. Hopefully this will open the doors for a Suburban League in Indoor Track.

Record — 7-0 with wins over B.C. High, Weymouth North, Malden, Brockton, Waltham, Natick and Brookline. Newton took 4th in states.

GYMNASTICS

A win over Brookline gave the Newton High Gymnastics Team the Suburban League Championship. The season included only two losses, Wellesley and Andover. These were compensated for by the defeat of Lexington, a team Newton had never beaten.

Gymnastic tri-captains were Guy Forte, Suburban League All-Around Champ; Bob Simonelli on the rings, high bar, and parallel bars; and Mike DiBenedetti who unfortunately was out with injuries part of the season.

Other members of the team included Bob Clancy, Suburban Free Exercise Champ; Irwin Heckler, Suburban Side Horse Champ; Joe Marini, on parallel bars and high bar; Steve Webber, who took second place in floor exercises in the Suburban League; Bob Adler on rings; Ed Coan on rings and high bar; and Larry Marini on side horse and rings.

Newton has a strong J.V. and looks forward to a good season next year.

Top Row: J. Marini, B. Simmonelli, G. Forte, M. DiBenedetti, R. Clancy, I. Heckler, B. Adler, E. Coan. Second Row: J. Plackeny, J. Gangi, L. Marini, S. Wilbox, J. Simmonelli, J. Adler, R. GIRLS' GYMNASTICS

The word around the girls gym during September was "We're going to be Northern League Champion this year." No sooner was it said than done — in February, after finishing undefeated during the regular season, the 1970-71 girls gymnastic team was named Northern League Champions for the third consecutive year. The girls also placed sixth at the State Champion held in Springfield.

Led by senior co-captains Helen Chen and Mary Ann Frawley the girls averaged seventy points per meet. Other strong performers were seniors Renee Goldberg on bars, Leslie Crutchfield in vaulting, Ginny Clark on bars, Gail McCarthy, Susan Needel and Nancy Brunswick.

Although the team's success is due to hard work a lot of credit should be given to coach Mrs. Henry, affectionately known as "Mighty Mouse."

Standing: Gail McCarthy, Leslie Crutchfield, Ginny Clarke, Nancy Brunswick, Mrs. Henry, Renee Goldberg, Susan Needel, Suzy Relmar, Sandy Seltzer. Seated: Co-Captains Helen Chen, Marianne Frawley.

This year the Newton High wrestling team gained full recognition as a genuine varsity sport. Over 40 boys comprised the varsity and junior varsity teams, which were coached by Norm Walker and Jim Bradley, and aided by Dr. Sabbath. After only three weeks of practice, Newton participated in the Lowell Tournament, where George Gardner finished third and Richard Mullin finished fifth. It was the knowledge and experience gained from this tournament coupled with hard work that helped contribute to the building of the Newton team. This became evident early in January at the team's first official home match where the Tigers handed Brockton a defeat which will long be remembered, defeating Brockton by the score of 50 to 0. A week later the matmen encountered Newton South in the first intra-city dual match. Despite the team's loss to South, Coach Walker was tremendously proud of the job his wrestlers had done.

The rest of the year was equally successful as Co-Captains Alan Elmont and George Gardner led the team to an 8-4-0 overall record, enabling Newton to finish second in the newly established Suburban Wrestling League.

The close of the season brought on the sectionals, where George Gardner took a second, John Geary and Phil Pescoslido both took fourth's, which qualified all three men for the states. Not qualifying for the states but finishing as alternates were David Fong, who was fifth in the 100 class; Mark DeWolf, sixth in the 128 class; Doug Simon, sixth in the 148 class, and Peter Carvelli, sixth in the 155 class.

The state tournament now became a reality to this second year team and also to the coach to have founded it. In the state meet held at Wayland High, John Geary in the 107 class wrestled well, but was eliminated by the eventual winner of the weight class. Phil Pescoslido in the 187 class also fell, but not until he had knocked off the #1 seeded from Western Mass. However, George Gardner prevailed as he muscled his way into the finals of the state heavyweight Championship and lost by the slim margin of 3 to 1 to capture second place in his weight class.

Many goals were met this year and still many lie ahead. With the developing of the team and the addition of matches with such teams as Wayland, Ashland and Melrose, wrestling should become one of the premier sports at Newton High.

Hildy Paris, All-star center at the Billerica Invationals.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Kneeling: R. Wilson, S. Martin, H. Paris (co-captain), D. Reddy (co-captain), Mary Curtis, S. Ekizian. Standing: Mrs. Harrington (coach), J. Brenner, D. Cardella, L. Marcgni, P. Delaney, J. Gilbert. Missing: S. Dalton, D. Quintiliani.

This year, for the first time, the Girls' Varsity Basketball team played in the Suburban League, against such teams as Arlington, Waltham, Brookline, Cambridge Latin, and Brockton. The girls finished an easy second place with an 8-2 record while Arlington, who gave them their only two losses, went unopposed as the champs with an impressive 10-0 record.

Co-captain Hildy Paris was the team's most outstanding player this year. She led the Tigresses with a total of 264 points for the season, a 16.5 point game average, and a record high of 32 points scored in a single game. Hildy's exceptional performance won her a deserving position on the All-Star team at the Billerica Tournament which the girls were invited to during February vacation.

Co-captain Diane Reddy also proved to be a major asset to the team. By contributing over 100 points this year and maintaining a strong 6 point average she tripled her total output from the previous year and more than doubled her game average. Off the court as well as on Dianne kept the team together with her undying sense of humor.

But where could the team be without the little people? Doreen Quintiliani and Sue Ekizian displayed excellent ball handling and setting up of plays while Susan Martin and Mary Curtis showed the opposition how driving should be done. Sophomore Susan Dalton did very well in the rebounding department and some pretty remarkable shooting was performed by June Brenner. After getting off to a slow start, sophomore Linda Maregni, worked her way into the starting line-up. Along with her superb rebounding ability Linda wound up the season with a contribution of 10 points in the girls' final game against Waltham.

Senior Patty Delaney also showed great progress as the season went on. In the girls' second game against Brockton, Patty made a fantastic fake and dribbled in for 2 points.

Jane Gilbert, also a senior, was noted for her quickness and great "man-to-man" defensive playing. She stopped many of the opposing team's best shooters from scoring. Janie also did a nice job in the foul shooting contest in Billerica.

Dianne Cardella did very well this season, defensively. She was quick to receive the rebounds and pass the ball off to a fellow teammate who would then, in turn, put it in for an easy lay-up.

You can have all the ability and skills necessary for a great team but for it to work you need someone to bring it out and put it to use. Such an exceptional individual exists — Coach Harrington. As well as being an excellent basketball player herself the girls feel that without her coaching ability they would not have made it to second place. For her superb coaching and constant interest has made the Newton High Girls' Varsity an established team.

With many thanks to our Varsity manager — Anne Ruggerio who displayed a tremendous amount of talent as she was the first manager to fracture her foot keeping score.

Basketball

In days of old (40's and early 50's) the Tiger Basketball Squad was the terror of the Suburban League and a perennial Tech Tourney entry. This year, thanks to the fine coaching of second year Coach Jerry Phillips and assistant Mike Buzzi the team raced to its best season in almost two decades.

Three year man Jeff Dunn was fall man at 6'4". After two years of mediocrity the redhead blossomed into a top rebounder.

John Murphy captured rebounds while small Bob Laughlin captured points from far corners of the court.

The backcourt tandem was small but potent. Mike Blauer at 5'9" averaged 10 points a game and played outstanding defense. He was complimented by Super Chuck Pendergast also 5'9" who captained the squad. Chuck averaged 16 points a game, often while guarding the opponents' top man. A three year starter and star, this year he made the Suburban League All-Star Team and was named the Most Valuable Player of the loop.

After a slow early-season record of 6-3 the Tigers surprised everyone as they ran 9 straight wins. Newton tied for first when they toppled Brockton 54-44. Their final record pronounced them Suburban League Champs for the first time since 1951.

The opening game of the Tech Tourney was a secure victory. Pendergast and Loughlin each had 85 points for Newton. John Harris, Rich Bove, Bob Shriber and Jim Frutkin saw action throughout the game as did Juniors Ben Press and 6'3½" Steve Platt.

Unfortunately for the Tigers their opponent in the quarter finals was top-seeded Somerville (71-1). The Tigers hung close to the city boys, thanks to Bob Loughlin's corner shots and Pendergast's control of star Mike Fahey. Jeff Dunn was playing well under the boards with Mike Blauer running the offense.

Down two points at the quarter and the half, the Tigers fought to within one point on Loughlin's jumper with a minute to go in the third quarter. Three minutes into the fourth quarter Somerville had a seven point lead and the game was over, for a final score of 55-37.

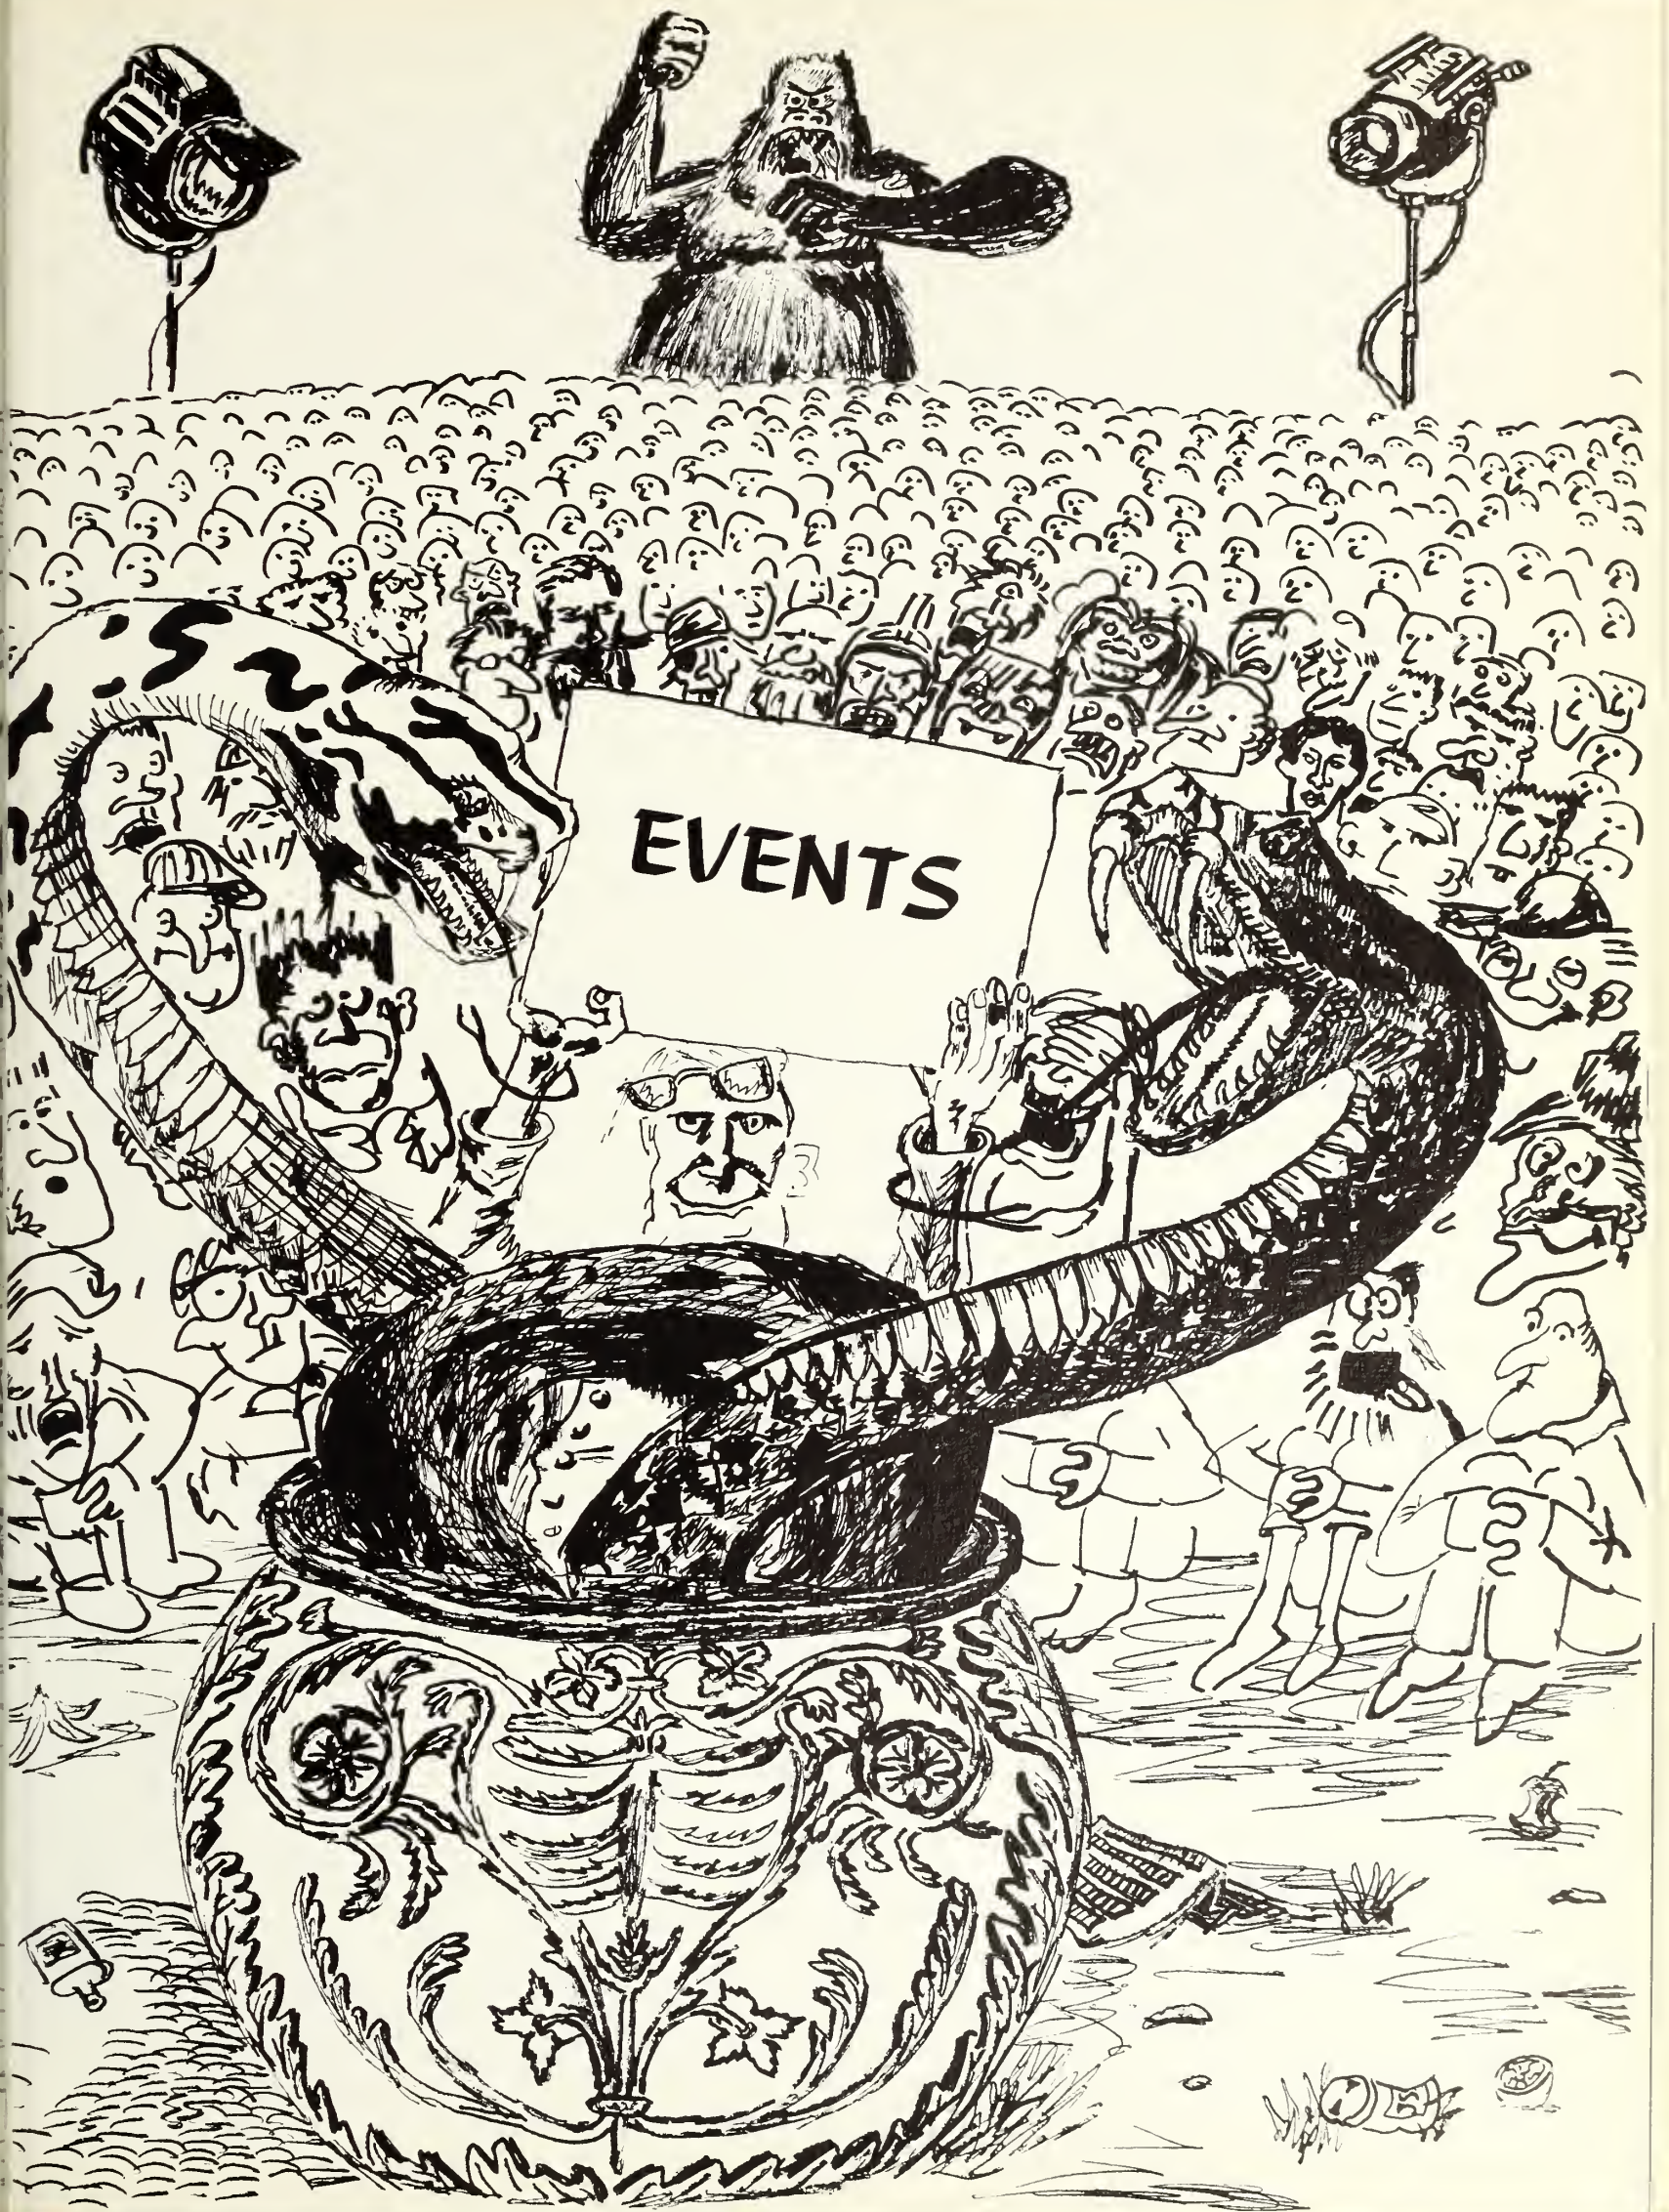

The Tigers have completed their season with numerous team and individual victories. Many thanks to Coaches Phillips and Buzzi for their support and inspiration.

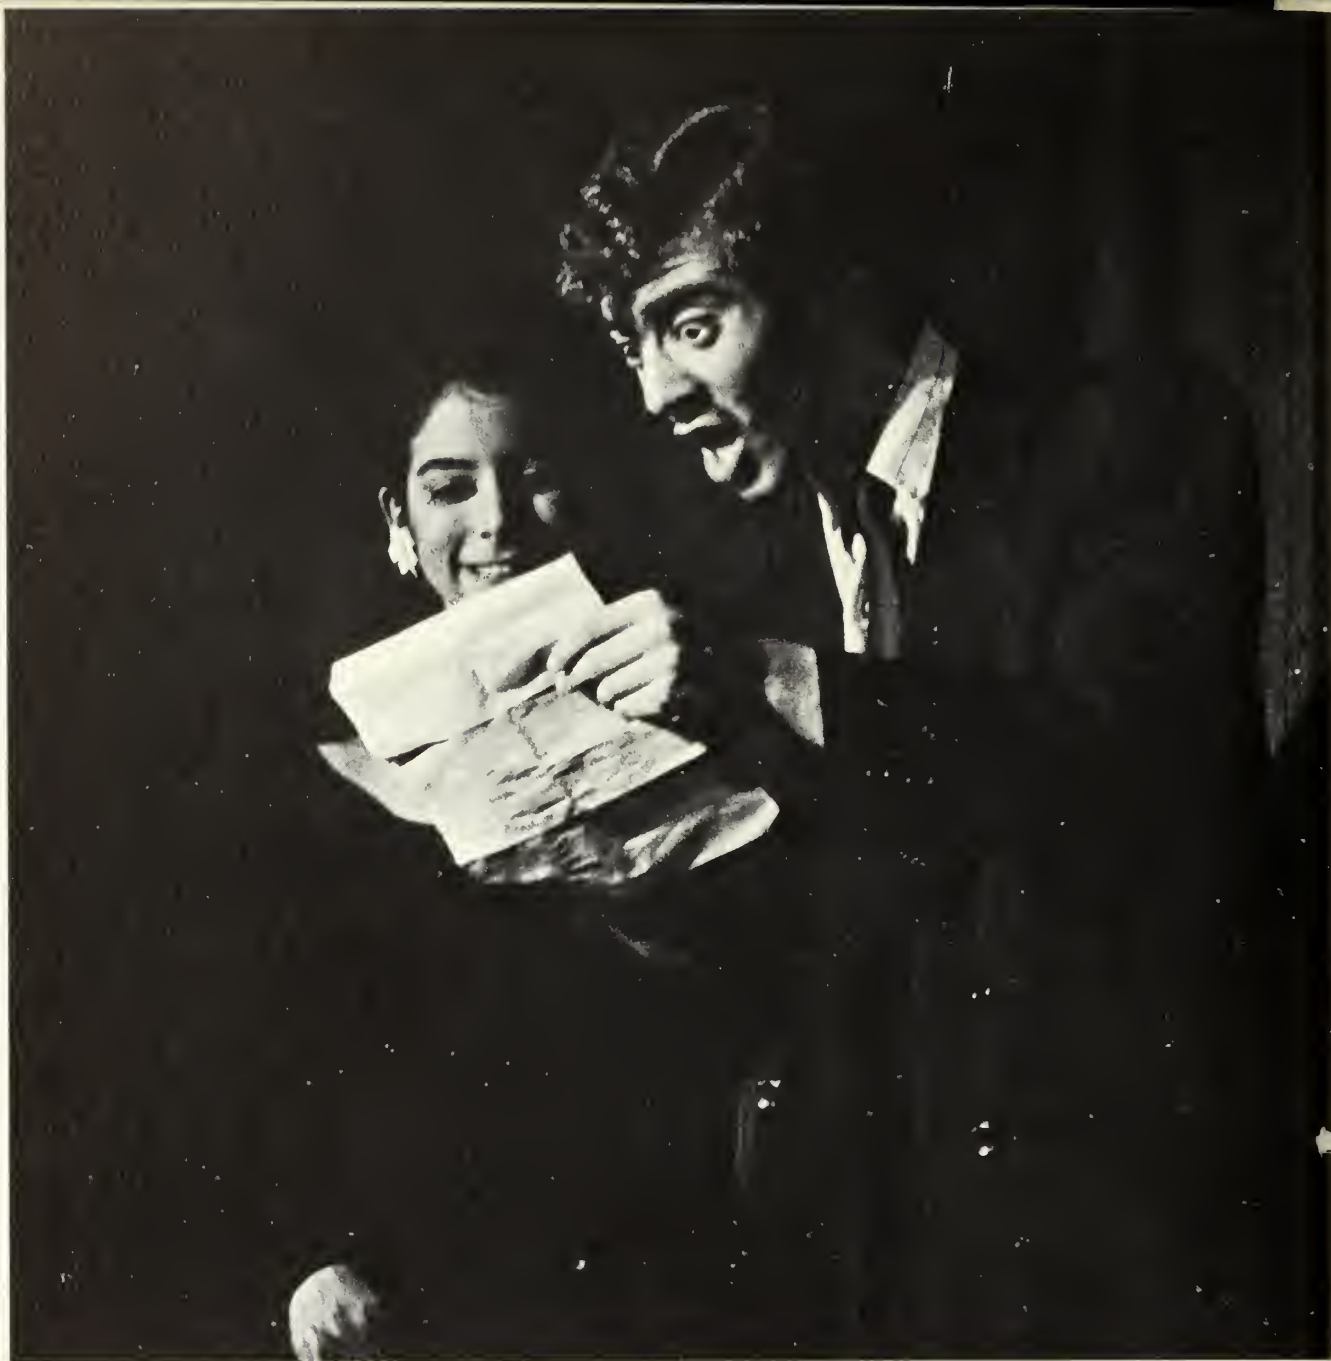

Standing: B. Press, J. Harrer, S. Platt, J. Dunn, J. Murphy, B. Loughlin, Coach J. Phillips. Seated: B. Shriber, M. Blauer, Captain C. Pendtergast, J. Frutkin, R. Bove.

THE HOT BOX CLUB

Every detail from the neon signs, the sequinned girls, the Brooklyn accents, down to the last Salvation Army stripe, added to the professional polish and enchantment of the performance.

WINTERFEST

Art, whether literary or graphic, is continent of freedom, freedom yet uncircumscribed by legality or mentality. It delivers men from mental bondage exacted by pragmatists unaware of the necessity for spiritual flight and probing. Its liberty can catalyze life again among the deprived, can divert the aggressive nature, can produce the flight of the genius.

Art is greedy, art is imperialistic; it absorbs men into its permanence without release; it urges expansion of intellectual borders without end. But art is liberal, its varied ingredients are everywhere; if it weren't for man's impositions, art would be diffused throughout all social strata. We have made it an exclusive commodity.

Our technology is an aesthetic offshoot of the arts, but it is prostituted to functionality having lost the philosophies that maketh art respectful of the earth and its materials. To reunite and breed back beauty is the concern of us all today.

I met the blue in your eyes,
a shallow water glazed their color,
And I wanted to say "I care"
but you didn't want to know.

To understand you is possible;
and so I could, if you'd let me.
But you hid behind a superficial shield,
so afraid, and I may not reveal my own.

I'd like to be near you
yet you wish not to be touched.
And when I promise not to hurt
I meet the blue in your eyes
a shallow water glazed their color
And I want to say "I care"
but you don't want to know.

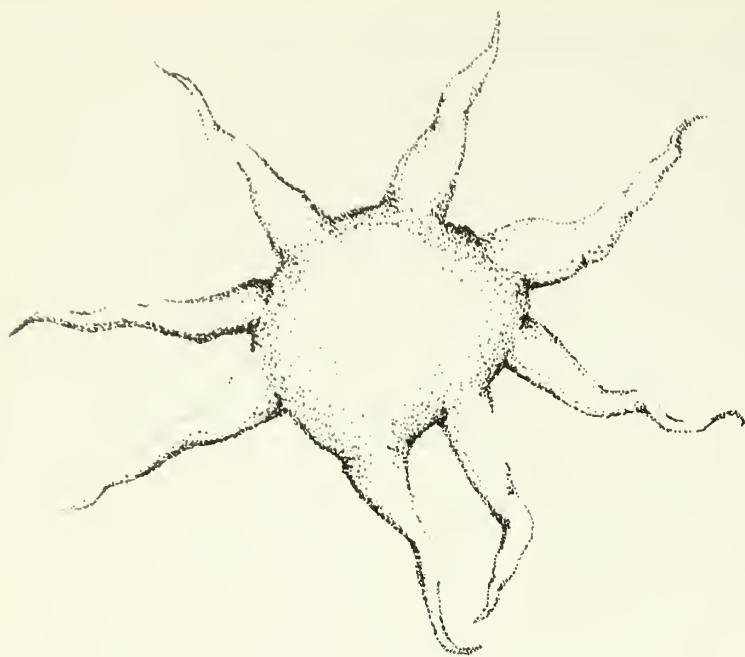

ORION

Only when forgotten scarf, parka, glove
And wool socks are remembered, and in use,
Does this hunter, cinched at waist, towering above,
Silently stalk, his vengeance never loosed.

It seems the hunter has the advantage
His prey full view, only arms length away.
But they are same-swift, and from this vantage,
They seem stock-still, so speedy is their way.

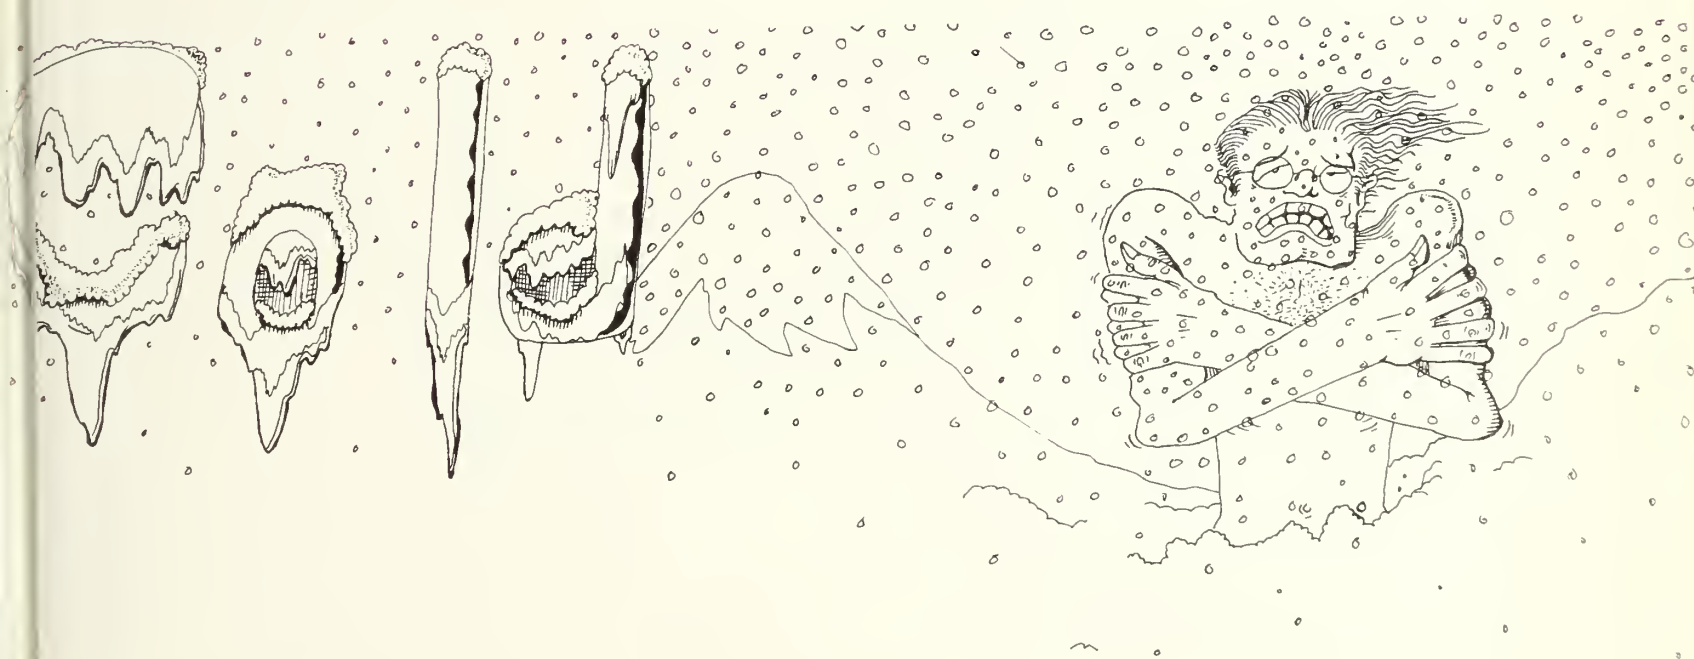

Fickle fate made he that seemed sea-bound
Follow instead an everlasting scut.
Love transformed the heavens for his death-mound.
A brother less malicious might have—But

Nocturnal, universal, he won't stray
In endless search of his illusive prey.

Golden yellow morning
 stay another hour
Light the doom Im under stop the fearful thunder Fog my mind
but light my world
Turn around the darkest hour
 Take the bloom from this lonely flower.

Colding freeze settling first on Skin
then driving deeper into flesh,
deeper,
finally touching constant bone,
that the mind freezes over.

CEREBRAL PALSY ROCK CONCERT

The sign was visible on the facade of the mosque
Cerebral Palsy Rock Concert — November 3
All Welcome, Donations appreciated
How absurd I snickered, asserted it by a sneer.
I sped on two wheels around the corner.

The third came and unconsciously I found myself
before the blaring noise of the blind band.
Sporadic jolts of bony arms seized me
as the paraplegic rolled by on his wheelchair
In a nostalgic manner he asked if I wanted to dance. Startled I ran . . .

Smack in between a duplicate image
My mind untwisted they were twins
Mutilated a bit from congenial defects,
on outgrowth of our new sub-culture: drugs
They smiled simultaneously and walked on each their separate way.

I spotted the Cerebral Palsy Queen
A pure heavenly image reflected in stiff white organza
However coordinated efforts faltered
marring any cherubic qualities
She stood by the open door desperately trying to welcome the last stragglers . . .
interrupted by the screeching of a speeding vehicle equalized by the cadence of the crunches, two legs and a jaw

The screeching rang in my head
I was engulfed by freaks of nature . . .
of man
Chilling my sense and yet
drawing me away from my despondency
All of us were desperately groping
At least I had my impregnable facade of well being.
Absurb perceptions swell and integrate
in the mind anyway.

he wondered
will now my days be altered,
will she stay the night,
forget the childhood innocence
of fond friends
or first kiss?
ancient summers can be united.

and softly he recalled
the hours of listening (in the sadness of confidences)
to her torn heart
and grateful eyes.

having reminiscent awhile
at half past ten she went wanting not again even the kiss goodbye
laughing only
she called him dearest friend.

I trusted you
you made my mornings far too distant from my dreams,
for in between the dreaming and the dawn
you disappeared.

(when we were silent, was there need for words?
or did you want to know, when you asked me who I was?
how could your smile have frozen on your lips?)

I was content
but you refused to dry my sudden tears,
or tell me if I should have believed the elegant illusion.

My conscience follows me through every street,
A naked child, barefoot, moaning, brown,
Tugging at my clothes. How can I meet
His gentle eyes when I have let him down?

boredom had begun to set in making gangrenous the mind
atrophying the muscles
and so I set out on a drive
through the country side
fighting the leaf slicked road
of last night's rain.

The hazy reflection over the pond
was of variegated leaves
branching off the sturdy trees
the fallen mud caked leaves appeared soggy and contorted as they nestled among the reflection of their creator
united again until the crackling abrupt wink would attempt to submerge them.

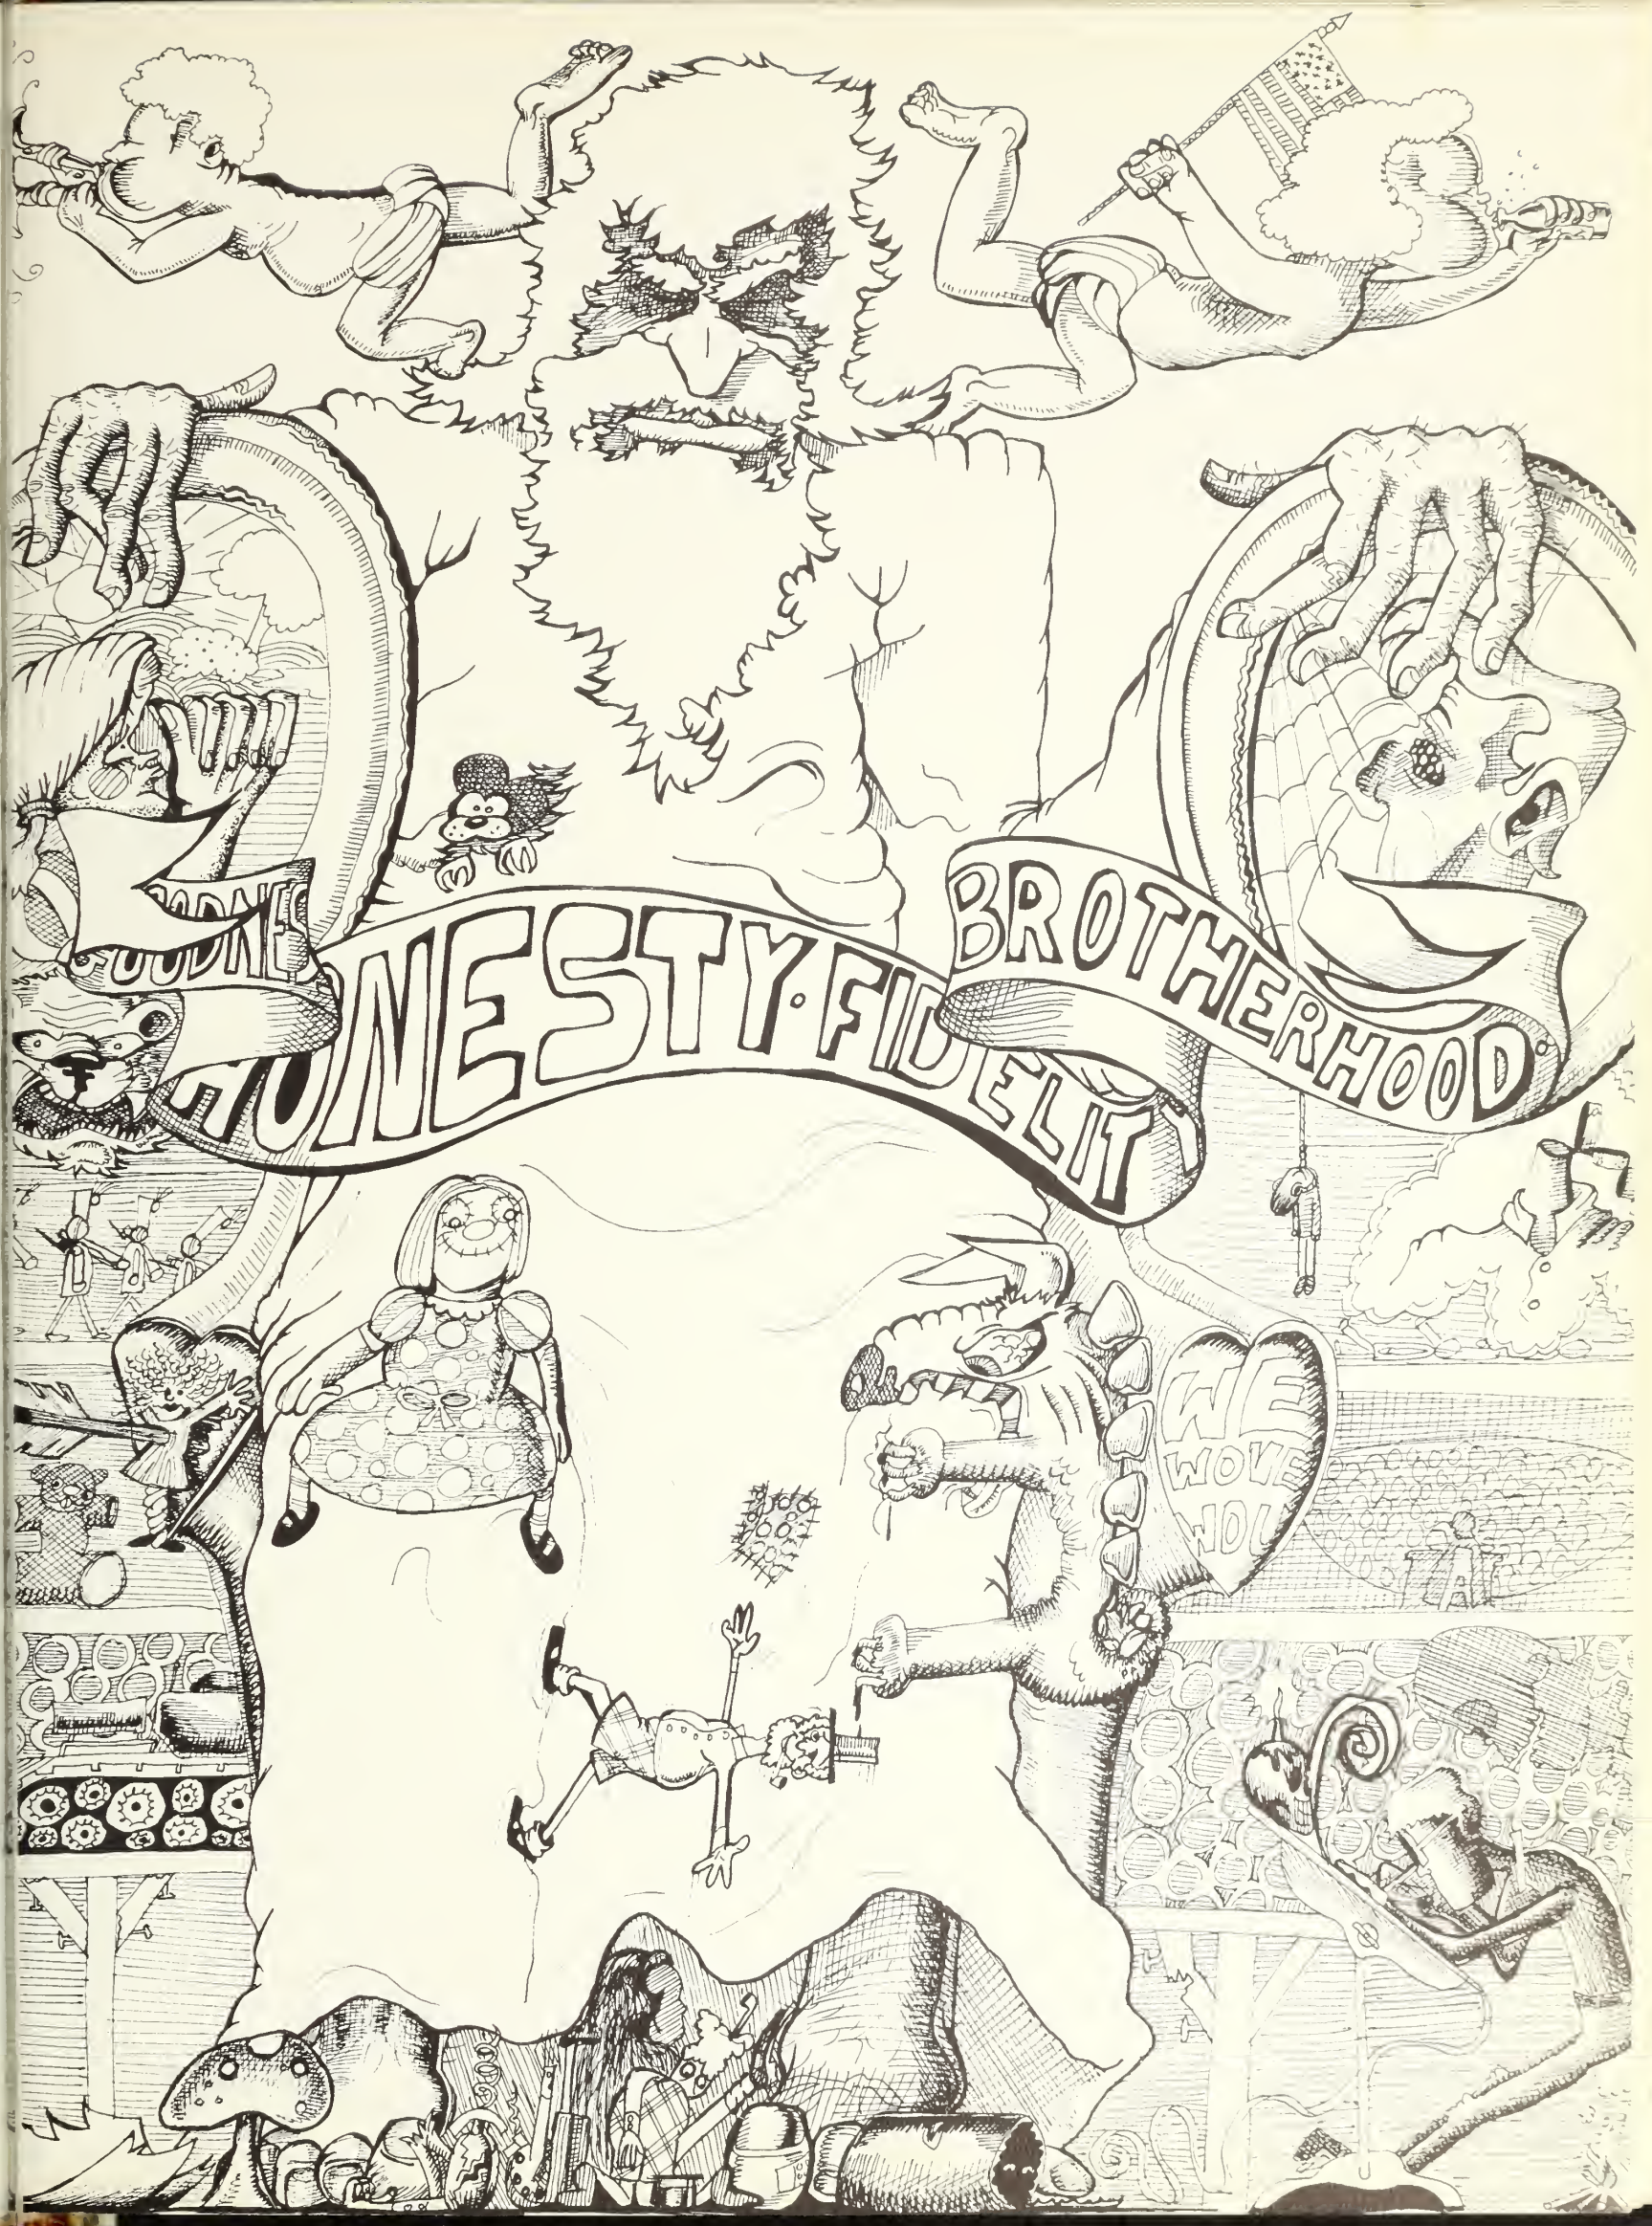

The road grew narrow
the brilliant, golden, rust and crimson leaves lighted my route
One hulk of a tree
had huge moist wine leaves
entwined around it in great masses
The stems wired about it appearing as veins would splotched by mottled amorphous leaves natures covering looked like a shield
until a gust of cold ripping air would set in

The autumn sights were to me an ineffable delight
as the vividness of the intense colors grew inside me
my motives hit me
I had longed to unite myself with nature
yet nature is as transient as I.

Sitting in a circle,
facing humans standing in an amphitheater of mock nobility,
the revelation comes from within,
without:

ON YOUR KNEES TO THE FUTILITIES,
Touch the ways of war.

Now, bathe in the moonlit waves
of the sea of reality.

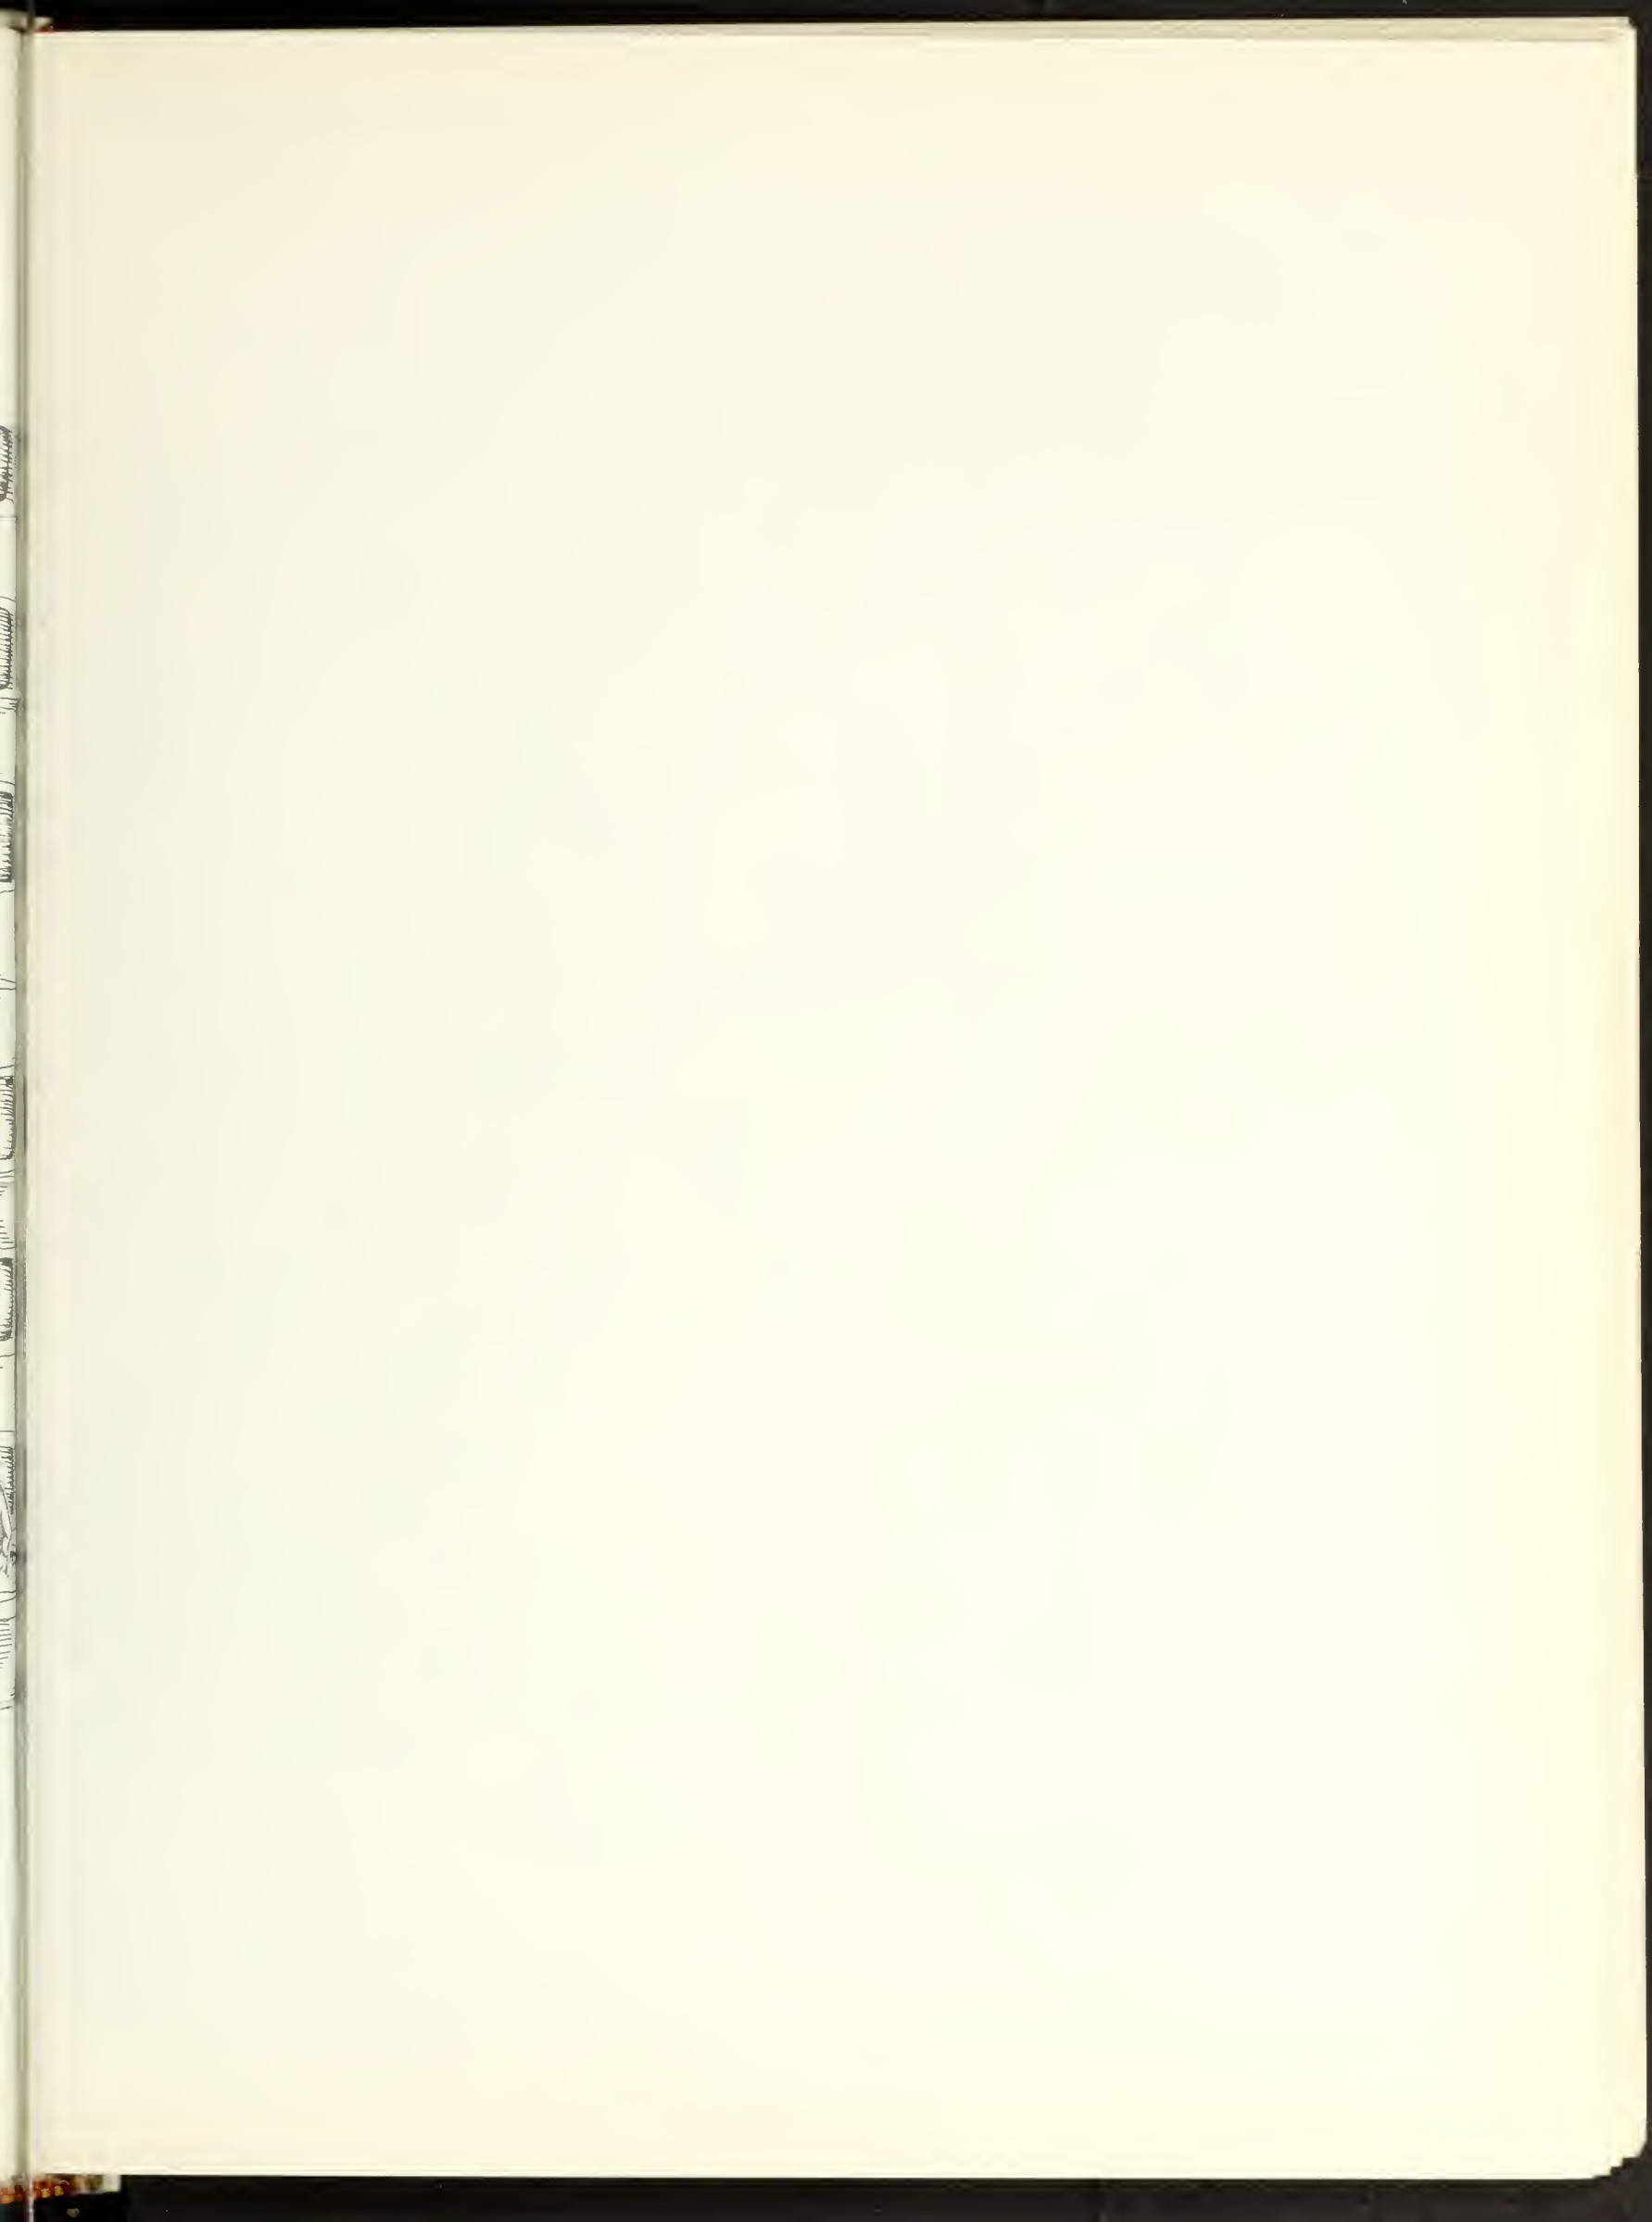

James H. Rogers

A network of wrinkles cracked her old face
Like dried-up riverbeds. Passionate tears,
Tender, bitter, had long since ceased to trace
The contours of her cheeks. And through the years
Eyes that had burned with life, by life were burned
Until her sight grew dull with indifference.
Even her lips, once warm, senuous, turned Numb, like prisoners condemned to silence.

Where goes youth when bodies, by age are seized?
And what of love when bitterness and hate
Finally claim one too many victories?
Let the love not die! But if it be Fate
Who cries "My price for the wisdom of age
Is love!" Ahh then, cruel Fate, make me not a sage.

How is it happening
that time moves
so swift and imperceptible

a journey that is never done?

Even these words freeze
on their pages
And pictures
(once a decisive
flash)
endure far longer than we shall know

A book stops the action
to record
a brief moment
in the middle of time.
